

Mamas Way

When Wynona sees a beautiful dress in a store window, she has to have it. But, although Wynona's mother works hard to support her three children, there's never any money left over for luxuries—not even for special occasions like her daughter's sixth-grade graduation. Will Wynona be forced to wear a friend's old hand-me-down dress, or will her mother find a way to grant her daughter's wish? Mary Whyte's heartfelt paintings perfectly complement Helen Ketteman's lyrical story about the true meaning of generosity and a mother's love.
